Marble has been used since ancient times for sculptures and buildings. Its beauty, uniqueness, luxury and imperfections are what make marble such a sought after product in today's designer market. You will also find that Italian marble has been used for kitchen benchtops and vanities for centuries. Bread is kneaded, pasta is made, marble bench tops are used and cherished for their natural beauty and characteristics.

A form of limestone suitable for a variety of applications. One of its most infamous uses was to build the colonnade of St Peters Basilica in Rome, Michelangelo also chose Travertine as the material for the dome of St Peters Basilica.

In today's world there is an immense variety of travertine available from many different countries. The scope of where Travertine can be used includes, flooring, wall panelling, benchtops, vanities, paving and coping.

Natural limestone has been millions of years in the making. It is famous for its earthy warm colours. Suitable applications include flooring, wall panelling and vanities.

Granite is the signature rock of planet earth. It is a strong stone with very distinctive characteristics such as high polish and is resistant to acid and weathering. Granite has been a pillar of strength throughout centuries and current design trends include exotic granites sourced from various countries such as India and Brazil.
